NRI arrested in Howrah for harassing wife

HOWRAH: A day after a New Hampshire-based doctor was forced to pay Rs 30 lakh as divorce settlement, another NRI was arrested on Wednesday on charges of torturing his wife, the daughter of a high-profile CPM councillor in Howrah.

He was released after an out-of-court settlement. Rohit Jaiswal, who runs a business in New York, was nabbed as soon as he landed at his Howrah home with wife Indruja.

His parents and nephews living in the same house were also arrested.

Indruja married Rohit in 2002 in a lavish ceremony attended by 30,000 guests. But it wasn't a happy marriage. Her relative told The Times of India that the "battered" Indruja would call her mother, Mamata Jaiswal, from New York to narrate her plight.

It was Mamata who lodged the complaint under Section 498A. All the arrested were produced in court on Wednesday afternoon and released on bail after Mamata decided on an out-of-court settlement, a Howrah court lawyer said.

"True I made the complaint. But on second thoughts, I chose not to drag family matters in public because it involves my daughter's life. I decided to go in for an amicable solution," Mamata said.
